

Welcome Guest | Log In | Register

S E R V I C E S B S C R P A R T E Edition

THE NEWS TRIBUNE TRAVEL

Tuesday, July 3, 2012 - Tacoma, WA

NEWS SPORTS BUSINESS CONSUMER NEWS LOCAL NEWS NATIONAL NEWS

Big text Small text E-mail Print Text 0

Montana getaway: Roughing it in style

GREENOUGH, Mont. – From where I sat, on a log in front of a crackling campfire near Bull Creek, deep in the heart of Montana’s Lolo National Forest, all the world seemed wilderness.

ANNEZ COOKE, THE DALLAS MORNING NEWS
Published: 06/05/11 12:05 am | Updated: 06/05/11 7:10 am

1 Comment

GREENOUGH, Mont. – From where I sat, on a log in front of a crackling campfire near Bull Creek, deep in the heart of Montana’s Lolo National Forest, all the world seemed wilderness.

Above us, the night sky was alight with stars. Beneath our feet, the piney scent of freshly scuffed earth summoned a long-forgotten memory, an echo from ancient days when primitive people gathered together after dark, not in front of a television but around a communal campfire.

Under any other circumstances, you’d have thought that the nine of us, a group of sometime-adventurers from California, New Jersey and Texas, were roughing it. But this was the Encampment at Bull Creek, the luxury tent camp run by the Resort at Paws Up, a guest ranch and resort 30 miles east of Missoula. Accessible only by horseback, the Encampment was a new concept, the kind I could get used to.

For most of my life, camping has meant getting down and dirty, usually on a budget. We’ve pitched tents in Colorado rainstorms, canoed across choppy Minnesota lakes and battled Canadian mosquitoes. We’ve subsisted on raisins and freeze-dried dinners and scoured pots by lamplight. But camping at Bull Creek is as organized as a Victorian tea party.

“You’re going to love it,” said Tira Beary, at Paws Up’s main lodge, as she checked our family in to a three-bedroom cabin, our base camp. “Camping’s twice as fun when you don’t have to do any of the work.”

The next day dawned bright and clear. Hastily exchanging names with the four other guests on the ride, we piled into a shuttle van for the 27-mile drive to the horse corral and trailhead. We mounted our horses while wranglers Tyler Beach and Mike Billingsley rushed horse to horse, tightening cinches and adjusting stirrups.

The horses, accustomed to the 12-mile walk on a trail that crossed three mountain ridges and four rushing streams, patiently fell into line behind Beach. Wiggling until I located my saddle’s sweet spot, I found myself near the rear in front of Billingsley.

The seven-hour ride wound through the shade of old forests, crossed burned-out moonscapes (scenes of the previous year’s forest fires), climbed alpine valleys and ascended rocky canyons. In midafternoon, we reached the Monture River, following it into camp.

At first glance, the Encampment at Bull Creek, accessible only by foot or on horseback, reminded me of the photos taken of 19th-century mining camps. Wet socks and towels hung on poles, storage containers stood next to the cook tent, and a pile of firewood lay in the dirt.

Ten tents were pitched along the creek, five of them for guests. The cook tent stood in the middle, heated by an old-timey wood stove. Long counters held crates of groceries and three propane stoves next to boxes, pots, frying pans and utensils stacked on two rows of shelves. A slab of wood served as lunch and dinner table.

Two nice outdoor showers near the creek delivered enough hot water for a short but decent scrub, while the privy, with two canvas-shielded stalls, stood 100 feet away at the end of a narrow path.

Camp living is lovely when you don’t have chores. We petted the horses, practiced fly-casting in the meadow, read a book in the shade, and hiked up the hillside. At mealtimes, we hung out in the cook tent, laughing as the wranglers ribbed the cook, and one another.

On our second day in the Encampment, Davey organized a horseback ride to Dead Horse Lake. We – most of us, anyway – kept our nerve as the trail navigated 50-degree slopes, teetered on cliff edges,

MOST POPULAR

popular comments blog comments

1. Tacoma middle school teacher charged with having sex with student
2. 'One man and one woman' initiative falls short of needed signatures
3. U.S. manufacturing shrinks
4. Amtrak train strikes, kills man in Puget Sound
5. First ship with Grand Alliance set to arrive at Port of Tacoma

The News Tribune had 69,237 visitors yesterday

Flyerboard VIEW ALL

- Market Transport, Ltd. Local drivers, Class A, P&D/Truck Drivers. Sign on today, excellent wage & benefits. 800-243-2415 or apply online at www.markettransport.com
- Waggoners Trucking Get your career on the road today. We have immediate positions available for: EXPERIENCED CAR HAULERS. Apply online at www.joinwaggoners.com Call 855-WAG-TRUCK for more information
- Early Bird Special $25. Call us for the deal. Medford Links Golf Course
- AFFORDABLE Cabinets Manufactured in Pierce County. Call 253-284-0800
- Veggies Freshest Grand Opening. Come celebrate with us! Friday @ Saturday June 29-30, 2012. 1155 Regent Blvd. Everett | 425.855.8355

Local internet marketing by PaperG

careerbuilder

VIEW ALL

Biotech
Nisqually Indian Tribe 4820 She-Nah-Num Dr. S.E.
Olympia, WA 985
 Anonymous Business

Healthcare
Surgical Scrub Tech PT opening for exp Surgical Scrub Tech for A

ounced over rocks and roots, and crossed a melting snowbank suspended over a rushing river.

Our last campfire came and went too soon. Meanwhile, the rest of our family had relaxed at Paws Up, enjoying the patio barbecues, al fresco spa treatments, bike rides and kayaking on the Blackfoot River.

IF YOU GO

Getting there: The Resort at Paws Up is 30 miles east of Missoula, Mont. The ranch is open year-round on 37,000 acres, at 3,700 feet elevation, with 12 miles of Blackfoot River frontage. Contact: 800-473-0601; www.pawsup.com.

What to do: Warm-weather activities include riding lessons, trail rides, river rafting and tubing, spa treatments, hot-air ballooning, rappelling, fly-fishing, kids' camp, country-clay shooting and backcountry camping. The Encampment at Bull Creek, one of the most popular outings, is $800 per person per night for three days and two nights. It's available May to October.

At the ranch, cost: On-ranch lodging for 170 guests ranges from luxury log homes to meadow homes and in three luxury tent cities. Prices for two-bedroom homes start at $1,176 per night and include three full meals daily, airport pickup, 24-hour bell staff, an on-property electric cart and other amenities. Add $75 for each child 11 and younger similar stories:

- Drive-to campground makes it easy to see formidable Hells Canyon
- Connect with nature on Arizona trail
- Craters, City of Rocks make good early backpack trips
- Climb, hike, fish, camp in these patriotic locales for the Fourth of July
- McWhorter family prepares to put its Rattlesnake Mountain legacy up for sale

JOIN THE DISCUSSION | Register here

We welcome comments. Please keep them civil, short and to the point. ALL CAPS, spam, obscene, profane, abusive and off topic comments will be deleted. Repeat offenders will be blocked. Thanks for taking part — and abiding by these simple rules. A thorough explanation of rules of conduct can be found in our Terms of Service. If you have any questions, including why your comment may not be showing immediately after you submit it, be sure to visit the commenting FAQ.

Add New Comment

Invalid Application ID: The provided Application ID is invalid.

Real-time updating is enabled. (Pause)

Showing 1 comment

Sort by newest first

Sara Louis

We love to travel to Helena Montana. We always stay at the Red Lion Colonial Hotel because it is close to many attractions such as the Holter museum, the Cathedral of St. Helena, and the airport. This is a nice hotel where the entire family can go and they welcome pets. To get the best deal for our trip accommodations from http://www.prontohotel.com/usa...

06/05/2011 09:50 PM Report Abuse

Like Reply

M Subscribe by email S RSS

SOUTH SOUND

- CEO leads Thrift Recycling Management into new era as Discover Books
- Spraying for moths finished in East Pierce County
- Amtrak train strikes, kills man in Puyallup
- Feed animals in Metro Parks and fines could follow
- Callaghan: There are reasons to celebrate Fourth during 3-day weekend
- Merrymen: From many volumes, a single verse emerges

SPORTS

- Sounders' youngest player, Cordell Cato, eager to prove he belongs
- Mariners double up Orioles
- Belgian transfers to UW to play basketball
- Jiminez's early, late heroics save Rainiers
- Murray into Wimbledon QFs after beating Cilic
- Boling: Tacoma native takes love for judo to London Olympics
- McGrath: Summertime and the livin' ain't easy for local fans

BLOGS

- Lights & Sirens: Two injured in apartment, thrift store fires in Gig Harbor
- Political Buzz: Sponsor of I-1192 says 'one-man, one-woman' marriage proposal short of signatures to get on ballot
- Seahawks Insider: Hawks training camp set to open July 28
- Mariners Insider: Mariners deliver in the clutch ... no, really, they do!
- Preps: Reclassification, new league change landscape for the 2012-13 school year
- TNT Diner: Now open: Boathouse 19 at the Narrows Marina in Tacoma

Anonymous Business
Healthcare
Emergency Services Registered Nurses Tired of the

Search for a job Search

ADVANCED PLACE AN AD

Presented By VIEW ALL >
Car Pros

2011 Kia Optima LX
Silver color, 23,944 miles

23/23

Meridian Pointe VIEW ALL >
Get away from it all...without leaving anything behind!

Our newly remodeled apartment homes are sure to please! Enjoy a relaxing time poolside or shoot hoops on our gorgeous basketball

11/28

Freedom Fair Activities
3 Lucky Winners of Tickets

Graduation 2012
View the Grads of 2012

